

Admission Information

The Pharmaceutical Science Graduate Program welcomes applications from students with science-oriented degrees such as pharmacy, engineering, chemistry, or biochemistry. Students majoring in other degree programs that encompass other physical or biological types of study are also encouraged to apply. Students applying to the program should have a grade point average and Graduate Record Examination (GRE) general test scores representative of their ability in the basic and applied sciences. Applicants from foreign countries are required to submit their scores associated with the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL).

You may apply online at Graduate and Professional Admissions
